School meets science 2020

The second-year students of the PhD programme Systems Neuroscience will offer a one-day event for upper-grade pupils that deals with different topics of the field Neuroscience. There will be different workshops, each conducted by a group of two to three PhD students. In a hands-on, interactive way, the students will learn more about the structure and function of the nervous system, senses and illusions, memory and perception as well as about working in a cell culture lab. In the end, there will be a quiz and a discussion with the opportunity to ask questions to the PhD student.
